The Hongkong Telegraph

HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 6, 1890.

THE half-yearly meetings of shareholders in the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Company, Limited, have rarely failed to provide some kind of entertainment for the outside public, and the periodical gathering of the clans on Friday last proved no exception to the general rule.
A wild descent from high tragedy to humorous farce has long been recognised as quite an easy accomplishment for the ante-diluvian Directors of this popular local enterprise—especially as the shareholders who think it worth while to attend these meetings are mainly the subject followers of a certain all-powerful member of the Board and are ready and willing at all times to obey his every béhest—and usually excites grim laughter amongst business men; but the proceedings at the latest exhibition were in some respects of so singular a character as to specially invite public comment and criticism.

It has been painfully apparent for some time past that the Hon. PHILIPPS RYAN lost that firm grip of business management for which he was so justly noted a few short years ago. On Friday last, in his capacity of Chairman of the Steamboat Company, his remarks to the shareholders, although in some respects sensible and to the point, evidenced the most superficial knowledge of the important matters he was endeavoring to explain, and suggested that the information on which his statements were based had been supplied with but little regard for substantial accuracy. The falling off in the Company's earnings, in face of an opposition that for months past has daily been increasing in strength and popularity, was only what might reasonably have been expected; but it is pertinent to remark here that the Directors' report gives no definite information whatever as to the extent or character of the decrease in the returns.

We search the summary of accounts in vain for any entry of the gross earnings of the Company's steamers during the half-year, although these are the only figures that could enlighten the shareholders as to how much the actual earnings had fallen off and the running expenses increased, the only figures on which anything like a reliable estimate of the work done, the efficiency of the management, and the prospects of the Company could be fairly calculated. It would seem to the Directors and the Auditors that it is quite enough for the shareholders if the Profit and Loss account merely shows the net earnings and the interest on investments, leaving all details as to the actual working of the Company as much out of sight as if no accounts were published at all.
No doubt, as Mr. RYAN stated, trade even on the Canton river has been comparatively dull, although we have not heard that the passenger traffic has materially fallen off; but if there has been a substantial decrease in business, it would be interesting to learn why there should also be an increase in the running expenses, and where it comes in! Mr. RYAN attributed it to the high price of coals, increased wages to the officers of the ships, and additional light dues; but when we consider that coals were much cheaper last half-year than during the preceding one, that the increase of officers' wages amounts to a mere trifle, and that the light dues are an unknown quantity, the honourable gentleman's reasons must be regarded as insufficient and unsatisfactory. And it is just as well to point out with regard to the light dues, that the Chairman was very wide of the mark when he stated that the Company's night steamers made no use whatever of any of the Hongkong lights; as a matter of fact Green Island light is constantly made use of by the Powson, Fathian, and Kung-chow; and we quite fail to see why, if other steamers have to pay light dues, the vessels of the Steamboat Company should be exempted.

It was, of course, anticipated that something would be said about the Huanghai, the specially designed new steamer for the Hongkong-Canton route, and in view of the generally recognised fact that the vessel is a hideous failure so far as Macao is concerned and has already broken down owing to defective boilers, excuses were looked for. But nobody could have expected such a deplorable admission of gross incapacity, or utter carelessness on the part of the Board of Directors. "The defective boilers," said the Chairman, "are not the fault of your Directors, because they paid a gentleman, Mr. WALKER, who was strongly recommended by a leading person in this colony in shipping matters, a very handsome sum to supervise the fitting of the engines and boilers; but we have discovered since that he did not supervise them very much; in fact the supervision was of a most perfunctory character, and therefore we find that the vessel has to be put into dock because the boilers are bad." If the Directors are not in fault for the bad boilers, would it not have been just as well to have stated who was the "leading person in this colony in shipping matters" who recommended Mr. WALKER, the gentleman who received the handsome "cushaw" of two hundred and fifty guineas for doing nothing, and doing that very badly? If the Directors are not responsible for Mr. WALKER's scandalous breach of trust, then surely "the leading person" who so strongly recommended that expert must have incurred some amount of responsibility! And who was the business genius who paid this man WALKER two hundred and fifty guineas of the shareholders' money before the work was completed, or any proof tendered that it had been supervised satisfactorily or otherwise? And who authorised the payment in full to the builders of the Huanghai before that steamer had been properly tested? Are the Directors not responsible to the shareholders for such stupid business lapses as these? If they are not, then who is? WALKER, of course! A scapegoat must be found somewhere.

When Mr. RYAN asserted that the Huanghai was "to look at and go over, a splendid vessel," and in other respects, according to experts, most suitable for the Hongkong-Macao trade, he was talking of what he evidently knew nothing about.
In outward appearance the Huanghai resembles a huge, floating tank, and she is about the most roughly finished vessel all over that ever came into Hongkong waters. As to her alleged suitability for the Macao line, Mr. RYAN's "experts" notwithstanding, she is simply a monstrosity that will give no end of trouble, causing daily annoyance and inconvenience to passengers and shippers by her fearful rolling in the slightest swell and her inability to enter Macao harbour at low tides. The designer of the Huanghai must have taken Noah's Ark for his model of this latest thing in modern river steamers.

One prominent feature of the proceedings under review was, what we are bound to regard as the gratuitous and altogether unjustified interference of Mr. THOS.
ARNOLD, the Company's paid Secretary.
Any information required by the meeting it was the duty of the Directors to afford, as they and they alone are responsible.
It will be remembered to the shareholders, that in the case Wibbe, Fraser-Smith v.
The Steamboat Co., the defence raised by the Company was that the Secretary was "a mere scribe" who had no authority whatever, and the then Chairman, Mr.
E. R. BELLIOS, actually went into the witness-box and swore to the same effect.
And yet Mr. BELLIOS and his co-directors sat quietly last Friday and allowed the "mere scribe" to assume the authority and carry out the functions of the Chairman of the Board. It is certainly surprising that no shareholder thought fit to put Mr. ARNOLD in his proper place and insist on all explanations and other information being given by the Directors. And surely the extreme pitch of irregularity was reached when the Secretary, in reply to a question put to the Chairman as to the repairs to the Huanghai, actually called upon Mr.
GILLIES, Secretary of the Dock Company, who was present in his capacity of shareholder, to give information which it was the duty of the Directors to have obtained beforehand. However, it is a pity that Mr. ARNOLD, when he constituted himself the mouth-piece of the Chairman, did not stick a trifle closer to the truth and be somewhat less Jesuitical in his replies to questions asked. A shareholder, Mr.
Ho Tung, wanted to know the cost of the new steamer, laid down in Hongkong harbour. The reply he got was that at a meeting held in 1889 it was stated the vessel would cost $33,950, and that there would be certain expenses connected with the voyage to Hongkong, about $1,000.
And then the Secretary added that the original cost was $34,000, and there were the expenses of the voyage and the dock bill when she arrived—and such cost would not exceed what was originally stated. After this statement, Mr. ARNOLD admitted that $240,497 had been paid on account of the Huanghai, and that amount appears in the summary of accounts; he further stated that the money had been remitted at "what he thought at the time was a good rate, 3/2d." Now, when the Secretary was so communicative as to what "we" thought and what "we" did, why did he not give some explanation regarding the difference between the original cost of the Huanghai, including expenses of voyage out and her dock bill, say $35,000, which he said would not be exceeded, and the $240,497 already paid on account of the purchase? In round numbers $35,000 at 3/2d. are equal to $221,053, and this amount deducted from $240,497, leaves a balance of $19,444, about which not a single word of explanation was vouchsafed. It would be interesting to know who was Mr. ARNOLD's authority for the ridiculous assertion that a deep draught is a necessity for steering a vessel! We were always under the impression that it was the rudder and not the draught of water that controlled the steering, and that where any difficulty in that respect existed it was met by increasing the size of the rudder and not by putting the ship down an extra foot in the water. And who told Mr. ARNOLD that only once a fortnight would there be any difficulty in the Huanghai getting into Macao? And who told him that the Kiukiang's draught of water was about nine feet? For four or five nights running, the week prior to her going to dock, the Huanghai could not enter Macao harbour until from 6.30 to 8.30 p.m., and it will be the same throughout the summer months at low tides. Last Saturday the Kiukiang, with a fair amount of cargo and about as many passengers as she is ever likely to carry on this line, was unable to reach the wharf until seven o'clock, and her draught was exactly eight feet. The flat-bottomed Huanghai, drawing eight and a half feet, has the same effect on the Macao mud that the circular piece of wetted leather known to school-boys as a "sucker" has on a paving stone; the Kiukiang can force her way through a foot and a half of mud, where the Huanghai would get helplessly and hopelessly stuck. The Secretary was perfectly correct in attributing the excessive draught of the Huanghai to her heavy top hamper, and there can be no doubt that such a vessel would turn over in a sea-way unless she had a grip on the water; but he did not tell us for what purpose such a heavy and unsightly structure was considered necessary on a boat running between here and Macao. It appears to us to be utterly useless. All the same, we consider the Huanghai, ghastly failure as she has proved for the purpose for which she was specially designed (?) and constructed, well adapted in most respects either for the Pearl river or the Yangtze, and no doubt the Directors will soon find it advisable to place her on the Canton day service, sending the Honam to Macao.

Several other matters transpired at the meeting which fairly invite comment, and we shall take an early opportunity of dealing critically with them.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

MESSRS. Adamson, Bell & Co., agents for the Canadian-Pacific Line, inform us that the steamship Straits of Belle Isle arrived at Vancouver on the 31st inst. from Yokohama.

The foreign engineers' recent commission by Chang Chih-tung, Viceroy of the Hu-kwang provinces, to examine the iron mines in the Ta-yao district, have sent his Excellency a most favorable report.

THE N. C. Daily News of the 30th ulto. reports that a case of Asiatic cholera occurred on board the W. Ceres de Paris on her way up to Hankow.
The vessel left Shanghai on Saturday, the 26th July, and before she reached Kiukiang the second engineer, Mr. G. Holmes, was attacked by the disease and died on the Monday night.

A TATTERED colic who was "nailed" entering a godown in Zetland Street on the 2nd inst.
without the permission of the watchman, being unable to explain his unwelcome presence, was "run in" and brought before Mr. Wodehouse at the Police Court this morning. His Worship jailed him for six calendar months with hard labour.

THE Hyogo News of July 28th has the following:—There have been several rumours during the past week of a shark from 10 to 15 feet in length having been seen in harbour, and its presence has been vouched for by several witnesses, one of whom stated he had seen it off Wada Point. On the night of the 24th a fish torpedo 12 feet in length was drawn up in a fisherman's net three miles off the Point. The weapon is said to be of foreign manufacture.

THE Peking correspondent of the Shanghai Mercury writes under date the 7th ulto.—The Jehol Silver Mines, which are under the superintendence of Mr. Church, at present in Japan, have been transferred from Taichin to Mr.
Tong King Sing, which amounts to turning over of the mines to the Chinese Government. The latter will repay the Viceroy Li Hung-chang the 15,000 which he advanced in connection with the Jehol mines. A late manager of the China Merchants' S. N. Co., it is said, will take charge of the mine.

A SUMMARY of vessels built during the year 1879 gives a total of 1,285,679 tons for British ports and 46,210 reported from Continental yards.
North-eastern ports head the British list with 717,699 tons, the Clyde standing second with 335,301 tons, and Belfast next with 79,855 tons.
The exports of engines and machinery were the largest ever recorded, £15,251,654, against £12,932,625 in 1878, an increase of £2,322,029.
Making simply steam engines and parts thereof, the Argentine Republic was the largest customer last year, taking £610,226 worth.

REFERRING to the cholera epidemic in Nagasaki, the Rising Sun of the 30th ulto. remarks:— With regard to the prevailing sickness in the native town, we are exceedingly glad to be able to report that it is still gradually decreasing, not only in the number of cases, but in the proportional number of deaths. In the small villages on the sea shore, where the disease is more prevalent, the number of cases is also gradually decreasing. Of that number more than half the cases proved fatal.

SIAM is a funny place. Bangkok boasts of a Lord Mayor—a nobleman of a rich warm tint, about five feet high. And now we read that Capt. Bush, the King's chief marine adviser, is Sir John. The Bangkok Times says that the barrow-knight, who was in command of the Venture at the time of her unfortunate accident, arrived in Bangkok from Singapore a few days ago. He entirely attributes the mishap to the native pilot who was on board at the time.
The lead, it is said, was constantly kept going and even up till a few seconds before the vessel struck, a depth of 5 fathoms was called, but a few minutes before that the pilot had altered the course and, as a result, the Venture ran high and dry on the rock which ultimately broke her to pieces.

THE last New York Maritime Register contains a lengthy correspondence from which we gather that Commissioner Reed, the Shipping Commissioner at New York, is in hot water. In respect to his action with regard to the American bark H. G. Johnson, Captain Colby. The vessel sailed from New York to Sydney in 1887. At Sydney ten men deserted, and he got substitutes to work the ship to Hongkong. On arriving from the latter port at New York he was ordered by Reed to deposit $221 to cover and claims against the vessel which might be made by the deserters. He did so, and petitioned for Reed's removal as the Consul at Hongkong had "passed" the matter. There seems a good chance of his being successful too.

THE aborigines in North Formosa are again on the war-path, and a large Chinese force, under the command of General Li, is operating against them.

We are informed by the agents (Messrs. Russell & Co.) that the "Union" Line steamer Tatarus left Singapore for this port yesterday, and may be expected to arrive on or about the 15th inst.

NEWS has been received in Shanghai from Tientsin that the course of the Yellow River at its mouth has shifted, and that junks which were sent with materials for mending the embankments are now high and dry, two miles from the recent channel of the river.

A JAPANESE native paper, the Osaka Mainichi Shimbun, says that when the cholera epidemic broke out in Nagasaki, carbolic acid rose in price to $75 per 100 pounds. It has now resumed its ordinary price, adds our contemporary, because Mr. Nakabama, who has just returned from abroad, states that common lime, which is very cheap, is as efficient a disinfectant as carbolic acid.

THE Chinese Government would appear to have at last decided to complete the new dock at Fochow for the accommodation of the vessels of the Southern Fleet. This dock was commenced years ago, but the work came to a standstill for lack of funds—a not uncommon occurrence in Chinese official enterprises. However, the Admiralty Board has suddenly recognised the importance of this dock and has instructed the Viceroy of Fokien and his provincial colleagues to raise the necessary funds and proceed with the work without delay. His Excellency, in a memorial to the Throne on the subject, reports that $10,000 will be forthcoming in the near future, and that the completion of the dock may be at last regarded as within measurable distance.

THE new English Companies Act, which was passed last month, provides that no person shall act as a director of a public company until he shall have filed with the registrar of joint-stock companies a certificate by two registered medical practitioners that he is of sound mind and competent understanding, a certificate by two members of the Incorporated Law Society that he has a complete practical knowledge of the law relating to public companies, and a certificate by two chartered accountants that he is well acquainted with the various systems of book-keeping, and the method of preparing and auditing the accounts of joint-stock undertakings.
Any person acting as a director without complying with the requirements of the Act, is made liable to imprisonment.—A lot of "guinea-pigs" on Hongkong boards will have to climb down if the law is extended to the Crown Colonies—and it ought to be.

THE Merritt Wrecking Company's steamer Rescue, with Capt. Demarest and a crew of twenty-five men aboard, left New York June 11 on its way to Cape Henlopen to search for a large amount of treasure which is supposed to be buried in the hold of the sunken British sloop-of-war De Brak. The De Brak was sent to the bottom by a squall on May 23, 1799, when proceeding to join the British West India squadron to take part in the war against Spain, and she had picked up a Spanish vessel and the gold on her way. The English Government has wanted to search for the treasure on several occasions, but the United States has always claimed it, because it is supposed to be reclining upon American sand. In 1880 the National Government contracted with the International Submarine Company of New Haven, giving it the exclusive right to carry on the search, and that company secured the services of the Ocean Wrecking Company of Philadelphia and the Merritt Wrecking Company of New York to do the work.

A CORRESPONDENT writes from Seachuan to our Shanghai morning contemporary:—"The normal quiet of our life in this out-of-the-way corner of the 'Far West' is just now a little disturbed by the news from Luipoting, a place some 520 li still farther west. It appears that the 'Man-ti' from the surrounding hill country have assembled at the city named and begun ravaging the villages and isolated places, owing to a scarcity of food in their own villages. The local authorities at Luipoting were unable to cope with the difficulties of the situation, and are in a state of alarm, while the roads to more distant points are in the hands of the aborigines. Some three hundred soldiers from the provincial capital have passed through Suifu on route to the 'seat-of-war,' and as many more are to come up from Yunnan. The officials are very strict in regard to these 'Man-ti' districts and have prohibited foreigners from entering them, as far as they can do so. In all other respects we move freely and quietly with little to vary the monotony of our isolated life. Mr. Pratt and his colleagues passed through Suifu a few days since on their way to Tschienlu, having made a pleasant run from Chang. A river boat in charge of a native, followed soon after, also bound westward."

CAPTAIN Jorgensen, with his companion Nelson, arrived at Albany, Northern Territory, on the 3rd ulto. after a marvelous voyage in the lifeboat Storm King. They left London on September 12th 1889. The dimensions of the boat are—length, 30ft; depth, 4ft 6in; width, 8ft 6in; capacity, 6 tons. A heavy gale was encountered off the Bay of Biscay. They landed at Madeira on October 1st, and remained there a few days; left Madeira for Pernambuco, where they arrived on the 21st November. There they stayed two days, and left again for Cape Town, arriving there on March 1st. Here they stayed six weeks, recruiting after six months at sea. After leaving the Cape, when south of Madagascar, in lat. 40, the Storm King encountered a cyclone, or so called which the captain camp safe and sound, strengthening the skipper's belief in the soundness of his vessel.
A second cyclone was met with just after the vessel sighted between the Cape and Agulhas.
The boat was entered in the American barque Adam Spide bound for Melbourne. A heavy gale was encountered off Cape Lewis.
Land was sighted at midnight the 1st July. To add to the difficulties of the cruise, the chronometer stopped on June 1th, and the watches on board had also stopped previously, so that Captain Jorgensen was unable to work the longitude, and from there to Albany the course was worked by dead reckoning. The boat is constructed in three sections and could be lengthened if required.

SUPREME COURT.

IN SUMMARY JURISDICTION.

(Before Mr. A. G. Wills, Acting Judge.)

A CONTRACTOR'S CLAIM.

Ling Alcock, contractor, sued the Hongkong Brick and Cement Company for $900.35, for labor and materials.—Mr. Wilkinson appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Hastings defended.
Mr. Wilkinson said that the claim was for the balance of an account for the building of brickworks at Deep Water Bay, and for extra work done. The contract was entered into in September, 1887, $1,250 being the amount fixed for erecting the kilns and removing a bungalow.
Various allowances were made for the work not detailed in the contract, but only $1,100 paid, leaving a balance of $900.35.

Plaintiff stated that he made the contract with Mr. T. Orange, to build a chimney and two kilns and to remove a bungalow. He began the work the following month, and $90 was allowed for excavating the foundations. $337 were also allowed for putting in a concrete foundation, and $11 for getting red earth from Hongkong, to make mortar. The work was finished early the following year, and $1,200 were paid on account. When he applied to Mr.
Orange for the balance that gentleman told him that the Company had no money, and asked him to "take it out in bricks."

Cross-examined—Mr. Walker wrote at the same time complaining that the work was not satisfactory. There was no clause in the contract that witness should pay $5 a day if the kilns were not finished within a month. The kilns fell down afterwards, through having been built according to the orders of the defendant's representative.

Plaintiff's foreman gave corroborative evidence.
Mr. Hastings, for the defence, said that the Company never took over the kilns, on account of their defective construction, but claimed damages for non-fulfilment of contract, and the penalty of $5 a day.

The evidence of Mr. A. Johnston, taken on commission, was read. It strongly condemned the workmanship of the kilns, and assessed the loss to the Company at $400 or $500.

Mr. Orange (of the firm of Danby, Leigh, and Orange) confirmed this opinion.

Mr. Walker, secretary to the defendant Company, described the workmanship as very bad, and said that the kilns fell shortly after being completed. Notice was given to the plaintiff to re-build them, and as he did not comply the Company did the work at a cost of about $500.

Mr. Hastings and Mr. Wilkinson having expounded the law according to their lights, His Lordship said that he did not see how the defendants could set up a counter-claim, but he did not think plaintiff had fulfilled his contract, or had done the work in a proper way, as he ought to and could have done. He had no claim—indeed he had had about $600 too much.
Judgment for the defendants.

THE FATAL EXPLOSION AT STONE-CUTTER'S ISLAND.

Mr. Wodehouse continued the inquiry at the Magistrate's this morning into the circumstances attending the death of the Sikh constable who was suddenly killed at Stone-cutter's Island on the 24th ulto., by the explosion of a shell which he was driving into a piece of wood as a wedge, for the purpose of splitting it into firewood.

Charles Arbuthnot, Major of the Royal Artillery commanding, said it was his duty to be acquainted with the storage and use of ammunition.
The fragments of the shell produced appeared to be the remains of an exploded 6lb. Hotchkiss.

On Stone-cutter's Island his men had a large number of such shells which were kept in boxes, containing eleven in each. They were stored in houses, and kept under lock and key. The whole of the shells were under the immediate charge of a District Gunner. Last October the Hotchkiss shells were sent over to the island, and the number was recorded in a register.

A number of them had been used from time to time and a record of them kept on each occasion. When taken out of the store for practice an entry was made in the register of the number fired. The number issued was in accordance with the number of rounds ordered to be fired off by the officer commanding the battery. The officer in charge of the target practice, however, would send the number fired off in a strict accordance with the instructions of his superior officer. It would be impossible for less shots to be fired off than were officially noted at the time of practice, so that it would not be possible for any shells to be left on the beach after target practice had ceased. The District Gunner might at any time deliberately steal a shell if they desired to do so, either at the time of practice or any other time. The register books had not been specially examined with a view to ascertaining any discrepancy which might lead to elucidation in the present case. The Master Gunner had charged the cartridges up to and on the 7th ultimo, when all was found correct; but the witness thought it would be better to have a special check of the registers in connection with this case. The point on the portions of the shell exhibited appeared

Michael Thomas Yarr was then called and said:—I am a surgeon of the Army Medical Staff. On the 31st July, about 11.30 p.m., I was in my house when the ward-master of the casualty ward called me to see a Chinaman who complained of a severe pain in the left side of his body. I went at once. He was in a collapsed condition when I saw him, but recovered considerably when brandy was given to him. I ordered a chair and sent the deceased to the Hospital. By some mistake he was taken back to the casualty ward again, and laid there till the morning when he was removed by the Police to the Civil Hospital. The casualty ward is in my charge. The cooie appeared to be suffering from internal injuries, probably connected with the spleen.

Dr. Atkinson said—I am Superintendent of Government Civil Hospital. On the 1st instant the deceased was admitted to the hospital about 11.30 a.m. When admitted the deceased was in a state of collapse, his pulse being almost imperceptible. He complained of a pain in the left side. On examination I found a bruise on the skin on the left side and there was evidently a good deal of internal hemorrhage going on, because the mucous membrane of the lips and eyes was blanched. Remedies were administered but they were of no avail, and he died at 2.30 p.m. the same day. I was present at the post mortem examination, which took place at 5 p.m. the following day, the 2nd instant. The examination was made by Dr. Marques. The body was that of a Chinese male adult about 40 years of age. The abdomen was full of blood. The cause of the hemorrhage was a rupture of the spleen. The spleen was found to be enlarged and was evidently in a good and healthy condition otherwise. The spleen formerly, I should say, appeared to be in a healthy condition. It was no larger than normal. The rupture must have been caused by some heavy instrument, but there was nothing visible outwardly except the bruise. A violent kick or blow with a boot might produce that effect. I judge that by there being hemorrhage in the m. sole beneath the bruise on the skin. Under ordinary circumstances I should say the deceased might have lived to a good age. All the organs of the body were sound except the spleen, where I could detect that the deceased had suffered from pleurisy, from which he had recovered. I cannot say whether the bruise was the result of one or more kicks or blows. I cannot say from the appearance that a blow from a boot, providing it was a heavy one, would be sufficient.

Li Afo said—I am a punkah cooie employed at the Military Hospital. On the 1st instant, about 10 p.m. I was pulling the punkah for the patients of the hospital, who were on the second floor. I was seated in the passage. The deceased was asleep in the same passage, about three feet from me. He was lying on his back, and there was one cooie in the passage and no light. I saw a soldier going along the passage. He was coming from a side way, but I cannot say whence. As he was going along he came to the place where the deceased was and called out to him "Get up, get up." I turned round and looked, and at the same time I saw the soldier give the deceased a kick. The deceased got up and cried out with pain. A number of soldiers got up at once. When the deceased cried out the soldier lifted up his hand to strike him, but the other soldiers prevented him from doing so. The soldier was afterwards sent away and the rest of the soldiers went to bed. I cannot recognize the soldier who kicked the deceased, but it was the same man whom the other soldiers took away. The soldier never left the passage until he was arrested. I cannot say if the soldier was drunk or sober. The deceased when kicked called out "Oh" and made signs of suffering great pain. There were five or six soldiers who came out. The prisoner had not to pass me before he got to the deceased and after he kicked the deceased he went on in the same direction as he was going and then passed me. He took no notice of me. He went on some distance after passing me and then turned back. The deceased was crying all the time and the soldier turned back and passed me again. He went up to the deceased and lifted up his hand to want to strike him. The deceased at the time was standing up, with his hands on his left side. He stood on the spot where he had been previously lying. The passage I speak of is the verandah, and faces Queen's Road. At one end of the verandah there is a staircase. I sat on the verandah to pull the punkah, my face being towards the walls of the rooms and my back facing towards the west. I sat at the west end of the verandah, and from east to west I was at the west end of the building. There were some buildings at my back, but they were some distance away. The deceased was lying between me and the railings, a little to the west of me. The soldier came towards me from the right. He came through a door that leads to the stairs. He was alone until the other soldiers came owing to the deceased shouting out. The soldier was going towards the harbour on the west side of the building. The soldiers who were aroused came out from the south side of the building. I did not see any soldier come out from the west side of the building.

His Worship, at this juncture, decided to adjourn the case until this afternoon pending the production of a plan of the building in which the fatal assault occurred.

At the hearing this afternoon Mr. Caldwell appeared for the defence, and the following evidence was taken.

The Court was densely crowded with soldiers. Li Afo was recalled and said—When I said I had my back to the west I meant that I was in the west verandah of the house. The deceased was also on the west verandah and on my right-hand side. The soldier who gave the kick came from my right-hand side. After giving the kick he passed me and went to the end, up to the corner of the said verandah—that is to say, to the harbour side of the verandah. He turned the corner and then came back in a few minutes. I mean that the deceased had time to cry out several words while he was going to the corner and coming back again. After being kicked the deceased got up and cried out and just then the prisoner came back. I am positive it was the same man as the prisoner who came back again because he had nothing on but his shirt.

Cross-examined the witness said—I have been about two months as punkah cooie at the Wellington barracks. I don't know all the soldiers by sight. I never saw the prisoner until the night in question that I know of. It occurred on the 15th day of the 6th moon. The last time I was here I did not say it was on the fourteenth of the 6th moon. On the last evening, yesterday, I said it occurred on the 16th of the moon. I said 16th because I meant the following morning. I don't know the name of the deceased. He was a punkah cooie. It was my duty to pull the punkah the first part of the night and the deceased was lying down on the verandah asleep and had a coat on. His head was towards the harbour and his feet towards Queen's Road. He was not cross-ways on the verandah. He was lying length-ways. I saw the prisoner was wearing boots. It is quite true that the prisoner came from the Queen's Road end, kicked the deceased and then turned the corner to the harbour-side end of the verandah. I have been two years in Hongkong. I know very little English. I heard the prisoner say to deceased "get up, get up!" I have often heard that expression before. There were no lamps on the verandah. I can read the clock. When the prisoner went away he did not stop five minutes. It is a confusing case; I can't say exactly how long the soldier was away round the corner before he came back. It is impossible for me to say exactly how many minutes it was, for the people were aroused and there was a good deal of confusion. I am perfectly positive that he was not away five minutes. The prisoner's head was wagging from side to side. I noticed it particularly. The deceased jumped up and cried out before the prisoner passed me. The prisoner was going towards the latrine when he went round the corner of the verandah. I did not look to see if there were any other soldiers at the harbour end of the verandah and did not turn round the corner at all. The prisoner threatened the deceased with his fist when he returned after going round the corner. I continued pulling the punkah after the assault. I saw the prisoner coming back round the corner towards the deceased and his head was wagging as before. The prisoner was wearing a singlet and trousers. I feel sure it was a singlet because it fitted close to his body. If prisoner had been placed among about 200 men, soldiers, I could not have picked him out. When the prisoner returned there were four or five other soldiers at the other end of the verandah. I am sure the prisoner had boots on when he came back, at least when he passed me he certainly had boots on. After the deceased was taken away he did not fall down. After receiving the kick the deceased went elsewhere to sleep. Between the time of the assault and the appearance of the other soldiers the deceased had gone elsewhere to lie down. I was seated about five feet from the wall and behind me and contiguous to my back there were the verandah railings. I was, in fact, leaning against the railings. I think the verandah is about five feet wide, but do not know exactly. I did not say that the prisoner passed behind me. The deceased was lying against the railings on my right-hand side with his head towards me. I jumped up to raise the string so that the prisoner could pass after he had assaulted the deceased.

Witness, on being tested as to the length of time prisoner was absent away, indicated that it was about a minute.

Sgt. Clarke, of the Medical Staff Corps, said that on the night in question, when he went the rounds, he found two of the three sentries asleep. Thinking he detected the smell of liquor he went down to the guard-room, and obtained a file of men. They searched the ward and found the prisoner, who was the third sentry, asleep on a bed. He was drunk, and witness sent him to the guard-room. Afterwards he saw the cooie who had been kicked, and asked if he knew who had kicked him. He replied that he could not tell, as he was asleep at the time. Witness sent him to Hospital.

Cross-examined—Prisoner was too drunk to be able to find his shoes when witness aroused him, and he also fell down. On a previous occasion prisoner was injured, by falling over a verandah, witness believed. Deceased walked from the Barracks to Blue Buildings—he seemed quite able to walk. Dr. Yarr examined him, and ordered him to be sent to the Chinese Hospital. He got into a rickshaw and went off by himself. Early next morning witness saw him sitting on the step of the Casualty Ward, Wellington Barracks. He seemed to be in pain, but pretty lively. Witness did not know how he got in, but the sentry ought to know. Witness sent for a policeman to take him away, as he was disturbing the patients. Ultimately—some time before nine o'clock—witness reported the matter to Inspector Swanton, who sent a laskong. Deceased had then been put on a reclining chair, and by Dr. Yarr's orders an ambulance was sent for, as the man was too far gone to walk.

Prisoner Hudson—I was on sentry with the prisoner on the night in question. The prisoner was on guard in the Lunatic Ward. About 10.30 he said to me "I'm going to the rear," and about two minutes later I heard a row on the verandah. I went out to see what it was, and saw a Chinaman kneeling on the ground, moaning. I learned that someone had assaulted him. The prisoner was then standing on the verandah, and at my suggestion went to his bed. He was only away two minutes.

The enquiry was then adjourned until Friday afternoon.

TONGSHAN NOTES.

12th July, 1890.

"Shan," in this connection, should be taken in the sense of hill rather than mountain, and that not a very large or high one. The mining works of the Chinese Engineering and Mining Co. are situated near the base of these hills, and some of the coal is taken from under them. New mines are being opened farther to the east, to which point the railway has been extended.

Last Sunday night and Monday a heavy wind and rain storm visited this place, which tested the quality of roofs severely.

The various grains are looking well, and give promise of a good autumn crop. The more advanced suffered considerably from the force of the wind, but from this they will recover. Considerable indigo and opium are raised about here. Trees are scattered about the country enough to break the monotony of the plain, and add picturesque to the village scenery. The fields are also covered with growing grain, and altogether the scene which greets the eye is attractive and restful to the weary office worker.

FOOCHOW.

2nd August, 1890.

The losses incurred by tea men have indeed been very disastrous; in fact, we are told they compare with those of last season. The owner of only 2,000 half-chests has lost on its sale fully $9,000.

The following are the tea cargoes of each steamer as per consignee's returns since our issue of the 26th ultimo:

For London	168,892 lbs.
Diamond	396,101 "
Denbighshire	419,125 "
For Hongkong	12,842 "
For Continent of Europe	15,031 "
For Queensland Ports	293,782 "
For Sydney	641,915 "
For Melbourne	1,206,346 "
For Adelaide	16,336 "

A very serious disaster is reported from Foochow, caused by the heavy rain that took place on the night of the 14th ult., and which flooded the village to such an extent that only part of the roofs of the lower range of houses could be seen, and so sudden that hundreds of lives were lost. It is stated that the water burst out in different parts of the hills in such quantity that it did not take more than half an hour to flood the whole of the lower part of the village. The wreckage of houses, trees, and numerous coffins, as reported in our issue of the 15th ult., came no doubt from this place.

With reference to the occurrence mentioned in your issue of the 9th instant, I understand the corpse of the deceased tenant of the Roman Catholics is still lying in the godown in this port and that the assistant will meet with severe treatment if he falls into the hands of the enraged people. This incident will increase the already great unpopularity of that religious body in this neighbourhood. Wherever one goes in all this country around they are spoken against, for various reasons.

The Imperial Customs are building a bungalow on the Lu Hill, 8 miles from here. A number of men, especially of the out-door staff, have had to go away from this place, being unable to stand the climate. One within the last couple of months only left Kiukiang just in time to escape death at the port; he died a couple of days after arriving in Shanghai. Kiukiang has a reputation for heat and bad air, and the residents enjoy good health, except now and again a little malaria. The new bungalow is being erected in a delightful spot. Not the least of the benefits to be obtained by a short stay there will be a bath in a pool twenty odd feet long and six feet deep, supplied by a mountain stream of clear cool water.

The new magistrate is making a name for himself. He has been so far more vigorous than his predecessors. The former magistrates would protect lawsuits for years, until finally the entire property of the litigants was swallowed up by the law. Early next morning witness saw him sitting on the step of the Casualty Ward, Wellington Barracks. He seemed to be in pain, but pretty lively. Witness did not know how he got in, but the sentry ought to know. Witness sent for a policeman to take him away, as he was disturbing the patients. Ultimately—some time before nine o'clock—witness reported the matter to Inspector Swanton, who sent a laskong. Deceased had then been put on a reclining chair, and by Dr. Yarr's orders an ambulance was sent for, as the man was too far gone to walk.

BANGKOK.

2nd July, 1890.

We hear that Mr. Iwy returned from Bangkok and his ruby mine on July 19th. Some people say that he has some rubies, but it is hard to tell just how he got them. We have not seen either Mr. Iwy or the stones, so cannot say anything authentic about them. The color of the rubies is dark to us.

Whilst taking our customary stroll around Bangkok in quest of news on Sunday last we suddenly came across three private carriages, the first of which contained His Majesty the King, in midst, and the other two, some of Siam's most prominent Princes. His Majesty was evidently taking a quiet look round, without any ostentatious trumpeting to herald his advance, and as such private inspections of the city and its surroundings cannot but add to the prosperity of Bangkok, besides materially tending to keep the local authorities on the qui vive, we trust he will continue his peregrinations, at short intervals, to all parts of the city.

The depredations of the anti-thieves of Malay extraction, whom the Siamese police seem to think cannot be arrested without a warrant from the British Consulate, and who are not restricted in the possession of fire arms, are getting a little too prominent. An artillery man belonging to Pra Ban La's battery, whose home is at Sam Sen, and who was sent to the aid of a proprietor of bullocks to help him resist the thieves at Ban Pan, in See-Kook river, July 18th, was shot through the elbow of the left arm. He was taken to the Wang Laeg Hospital, where the arm had to be amputated. This was done by the physicians under the direction of Dr. Hays, the Inspector General, the other day, and the patient is in a fair way to recover.

The red funnel of Jardine, Matheson & Company's steamers has made its appearance in Bangkok at last, as was noticed by the arrival of the Yuen Sang from Hongkong, and her departure with a cargo of rice. The scarcity of this article in Japan and the shipments from China thence, may account for the presence of one of Jardine's vessels here, though it is hard to tell where this enterprising and well-known

ABRIDGED PROSPECTUS.

THIS Company is formed for the purpose of acquiring and carrying on the well-known and lucrative Hotel business conducted for many years by the late Mrs. GREEN, and for the past nine years by Mr. W. G. JOHNSON, who is now desirous of relinquishing active participation in the management, but shows his entire confidence in the property of the Company by becoming a large holder of Shares.

The property purchased by the Company is as follows:—
A piece of land having a frontage to the Bund of 246 ft. 5 in. and held in perpetuity from the Japanese Government at an almost nominal rental. This ground was the first selection made when the port was opened to foreign trade, and carries with it the extremely valuable privilege to use the beach in front of the land for the entire length down to low water mark, an advantage not enjoyed by any other in the Foreign Concession, and which effectually secures to the property an uninterrupted view of the Harbour.

The main building of the Hotel, situated at the corner of Division Street and the Bund, and in close proximity to the Hatocho, the usual landing place for passengers from vessels visiting Kobe.
The building is substantially constructed of stone and brick, and has recently been repaired and painted, and contains spacious Bar and Billiard Rooms, large Dining Room, Bed Rooms, Washing Room, and extensive accommodation for baths, &c.—in short, all the requisites of a first-class Hotel.

Two houses (two stories) adjoining and connected with the Hotel, each containing six rooms.
One house (two stories) separated from the Hotel by a mud gully now on the property acquired by the Company, and containing seven rooms.

Brick and mud Godowns, two two-storied servants' quarters, and ample store-room and culinary accommodation, hot-water pressure boiler, &c., &c.

In the rear, and separated from the main buildings by a street or lane, are two plots of ground, one containing 300 tenba more or less, and the other 134.8 tenba, and for terms of years expiring respectively on the 18th September, 1900, and the 1st July, 1911, at the annual rentals of 180 yen and 77 yen. These rentals are payable five years in advance, and the Company will be entitled to the benefit of any moneys so paid.

On these properties are erected:— One House (three stories), containing twelve rooms, with bath-rooms and other conveniences.
One House (two stories), containing eight rooms and similar accommodations.

One House (two stories), containing four rooms, used for gentlemen's quarters.

One House (two stories), containing twelve rooms, used for servants' quarters.

One House containing four rooms and similarly utilized.

The newly erected and commodious stables, containing accommodation for five ponies.

In the stables are five excellent China Ponies, with new saddles, bridles, and all other requisites for carrying on a lively stable.

In addition to the foregoing the Company will acquire without further payment the entire stock in trade, Wines, Liquors, and Furniture, and reserve stocks of Wines, Liquors, Bed and Table Linen, China, Glass, Cutlery, &c., &c., belonging to the Hotel, a large supply of which has recently been procured. There is also connected with the business a powerful Steam Launch, built during the present year especially for the requirements of the Hotel at a cost of over $3,500. This launch is well adapted for picnic parties, as it contains a lofty cabin capable of seating 20 persons comfortably, and is designed so as to withstand stormy weather. The launch is also included in the purchase.

The Hotel contains for the accommodation of guests 20 double beds and a single bed. All the rooms are lighted by electricity, and the main building is fitted for gas in addition.

The Company will take over the business as "a going concern" on the 1st October, 1890, and will therefore be entitled to the profits and be responsible for the expenses. Competent observers consider that as a resort for tourists and residents of India and China compelled to seek relief from the trying climates of those countries, the exceptional advantages offered by Japan have not yet received but little comparative attention. The stream of visitors in search of pleasure or health must to a great extent pass through Kobe, the shipping and trade of the port is rapidly and steadily increasing, and all these conditions will combine to influence the Company's business in a satisfactory manner. The vendor's estimate of the profits of the business as carried on by him shows when the saying in rent which will be effected by the Company is considered, a return upon the share capital of fifteen per cent. This amount the Directors feel confident will be exceeded by the increased prosperity of the Hotel under the more favourable conditions for successful working enjoyed by the Company, and the greater accommodation afforded by the additional buildings which the requirements of the business render desirable.

The Company will commence operations unhindered by any contracts or engagements of any description whatever. They take over a well-established and prosperous business, and one which must command the attention of the public as a sound and profitable investment.

Applications for Shares should be made on Forms to be obtained from the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, and forwarded to the Company's Bankers, together with the amount of deposit, with if elsewhere than Kobe, exchange to that port, added.

Forms of Application and prospectuses giving full particulars can be obtained from the Company's Bankers in Yokohama, Kobe, Nagasaki, Hongkong, and Shanghai.

The Subscription List will close for Yokohama, Kobe, and Nagasaki on the 4th August, 1890, and for Hongkong and Shanghai on the 13th August.
